The 4th WMO Workshop on Monsoon Heavy Rainfall (MHR-4)

Science and Prediction of Monsoon Heavy Rainfall

(16-18 April 2019, Shenzhen China)

Aims of the workshop:

1) To present and discuss recent research results on the observation, modelling and prediction of heavy rainfall in the monsoon region (including heavy rainfall associated with tropical cyclone events).
2) To provide training to heavy rainfall National Meteorological and Hydrological Services (NMHS) forecasters in the monsoon region, and to promote collaboration among research institutes, universities, and operational centres in relevant field campaigns and research activities.
3) To have progress meeting for the international field and modelling project, Southern China Monsoon Rainfall Experiment (SCMREX).
4) To discuss plans and opportunities for future study on physical mechanism governing the monsoon heavy rainfall and further improvement of quantitative precipitation prediction technique.
